There are more big personnel announcements for Biden's cyber leadership. Hearings begin on some of the big picks we already knew about. And the feds continue to gather intel related to the Capitol attack and the SolarWinds breach. This is CyberScoop for Tuesday, Jan. 19, 2020.

Rob Joyce returning from the UK

Rob Joyce, the NSA's special U.S. liaison officer at the U.S. Embassy in London, will replace Anne Neuberger as director in the agency's Cybersecurity Directorate, the NSA announced Friday. Joyce has a long track record of working in cybersecurity leadership roles in the U.S. government. He previously served as senior adviser for cybersecurity strategy to the NSA director, and before that served as special assistant to the president and cybersecurity coordinator on the National Security Council. Joyce will take on the reins at the year-old Cybersecurity Directorate as the government continues to investigate the SolarWinds breach. Shannon Vavra had the news first.

Mayorkas, Haines, Blinken all have hearings today

Congress is busy today with nomination hearings for President-elect Joe Biden's picks for cyber-related gigs. The Senate Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs Committee this morning began vetting his Department of Homeland Security secretary nominee, Alejandro Mayorkas. Simultaneously, the Senate Intelligence panel began a hearing on Avril Haines, whom Biden selected to serve as director of national intelligence. This afternoon, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee grills Anthony Blinken, Biden's nominee for secretary of State. We're watching them all.

Sulmeyer to be senior White House director for cyber

Michael Sulmeyer is the latest cybersecurity pickup for the Biden White House. Sulmeyer will become senior director for cyber, a Monday evening post on a transition website revealed. Sulmeyer has served in cyber positions for both the Trump and Obama administrations, and in between he was director of the Belfer Center's Cyber Security Project at the Harvard Kennedy School. Tim Starks reports.

Russia, China and Iran pounce on Capitol riot chaos

U.S. adversaries wasted no time in exploiting the rampage at the Capitol to advance their own interests, according to a U.S. intelligence memo obtained by CyberScoop. Russian state media have pushed the false conspiracy theory that Antifa was responsible, Iranian mouthpieces have parroted talk of the 25th Amendment and Chinese media have cast the U.S. as a power on the wane. The intelligence document also makes clear that analysts are tracking cyber activity ahead of Joe Biden's inauguration. Sean Lyngaas has the memo.

The SolarWinds plot keeps thickening

Symantec said Tuesday it had found a new hacking tool used by the SolarWinds attackers to move through computer networks. It's just the latest twist in an ever-widening investigation into one of the most sweeping hacking campaigns in recent memory. The attackers installed the malicious code, dubbed Raindrop, on a handful of carefully chosen computers in an effort to spy on them. More from Sean.

Signal's 'technical difficulties'

Signal users around the world began reporting issues sending messages in the mobile application last Friday morning as Signal acknowledged in a statement the application is having "technical difficulties," but did not offer an explanation. Some users found messages took much longer to send than normal, or received a notice that the service was "unavailable" when trying to send messages. The issues emerged days after Signal reported a sudden uptick in new users following the storming of the Capitol earlier this month. Shannon explains.

Forum for stolen credit data says it will shut down

The Joker's Stash — an online hub for millions of credit card numbers stolen from restaurants and supermarket chains, among others — will cease operation in the coming month, according to a post Friday seen by multiple threat intelligence firms. Word of the closure comes from an administrator whom one researcher described as "credible," and comes after a recent law enforcement action against part of the site. Sellers on the site in October 2020 claimed to offer 3 million credit card numbers they said were stolen in a breach at Dickey's Barbecue Pit, a U.S. restaurant chain. Jeff Stone had the story first.

DOJ OIG Announces Initiation of Review

Department of Justice (DOJ) Inspector General Michael E. Horowitz announced today that:

The DOJ Office of the Inspector General (OIG) is initiating a review to examine the role and activity of DOJ and its components in preparing for and responding to the events at the U.S. Capitol on January 6, 2021. The DOJ OIG will coordinate its review with reviews also being conducted by the Offices of Inspector General of the Department of Defense, the Department of Homeland Security, and the Department of the Interior. The DOJ OIG review will include examining information relevant to the January 6 events that was available to DOJ and its components in advance of January 6; the extent to which such information was shared by DOJ and its components with the U.S. Capitol Police and other federal, state, and local agencies; and the role of DOJ personnel in responding to the events at the U.S. Capitol on January 6. The DOJ OIG also will assess whether there are any weaknesses in DOJ protocols, policies, or procedures that adversely affected the ability of DOJ or its components to prepare effectively for and respond to the events at the U.S. Capitol on January 6. If circumstances warrant, the DOJ OIG will consider examining other issues that may arise during the review.

The DOJ OIG is mindful of the sensitive nature of the ongoing criminal investigations and prosecutions related to the events of January 6. Consistent with long-standing OIG practice, in conducting this review, the DOJ OIG will take care to ensure that the review does not interfere with these investigations or prosecutions.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

DOJ OIG Announces Initiation of Review

Department of Justice (DOJ) Inspector General Michael E. Horowitz announced today that:

The DOJ Office of the Inspector General (OIG) is initiating a review to examine the role and activity of DOJ and its components in preparing for and responding to the events at the U.S. Capitol on January 6, 2021. The DOJ OIG will coordinate its review with reviews also being conducted by the Offices of Inspector General of the Department of Defense, the Department of Homeland Security, and the Department of the Interior. The DOJ OIG review will include examining information relevant to the January 6 events that was available to DOJ and its components in advance of January 6; the extent to which such information was shared by DOJ and its components with the U.S. Capitol Police and other federal, state, and local agencies; and the role of DOJ personnel in responding to the events at the U.S. Capitol on January 6. The DOJ OIG also will assess whether there are any weaknesses in DOJ protocols, policies, or procedures that adversely affected the ability of DOJ or its components to prepare effectively for and respond to the events at the U.S. Capitol on January 6. If circumstances warrant, the DOJ OIG will consider examining other issues that may arise during the review.

The DOJ OIG is mindful of the sensitive nature of the ongoing criminal investigations and prosecutions related to the events of January 6. Consistent with long-standing OIG practice, in conducting this review, the DOJ OIG will take care to ensure that the review does not interfere with these investigations or prosecutions.

(U//~~FOUO~~) The following list of events is being maintained per request of WFO Executive Management. The items on this list are compiled by FBI partner agencies. FBI WFO does not have any information to suggest these events will involve anything other than first amendment protected activity and is being distributed for situational awareness. Their inclusion here is not intended to associate the protected activity with criminality or a threat to national security, or to infer that such protected activity itself violates federal law. However, based on known intelligence and/or specific, historical observations, it is possible the protected activity could invite a violent reaction towards the subject individual or others in retaliation or with the goal of stopping the protected activity from occurring in the first instance. In the event no violent reaction occurs, FBI policy and federal law dictates that no further record be made of the protected activity.

The following information is current as of 3 January 2021 at 0800. This is for FBI internal use only.

I've been cleared from the Capitol and am home finally. I'll be in the office tomorrow at some point either before or after and I deal with the auto seat retrieval from the county sergeant.

That said, if anything comes up you know I'm good for it.
